We think the sugar-planing interes' of the South, to which we stall next advert, will a lay a lap rehe : 10 on the score. This great is terest of the So th, by reason of the grow ; scarcity, and consequently chancing ince of wood, must find a substitute for it, cheaper is a fuel for their sugar boiling, or they will be com or to pursue the culture of something elec-There are 1,434 of these estates: the number is exactly known. Of this number, it is reckone that 956, ying co tiguous to or on the Mississipp', would con-ume coal in their sugar operations, provided they could get it, and be assured of a constant supp y. These 956 estates each average, according to reliable data, 312 hhds. of sugar. Upon a few comparisons of the aver ge consumption of wood and coal in making a hid. of sugar, it is found that three cords of the former—thirty-une bushels of the later—are required—the former costing $4 per cord, the latter (a high estimate) 25 cent per bushel, showing a difference in favor of coal of $4 25 in making a libd of sugar, a clear gain to the planters. May it not readily be inferred. therefore, which of the two the planter woo use, if both were equally at his choice? Upon the reasonable belief that coal would be select ed hy every planter, there would be required for this great industrial interest of our country the enormous aggregate of thirteen and three q arter millions of bushels. But the Southern demand does not stop here. The New Orleans city consumption now requires three millions of bushels, the steam marine touching at that port require nearly four millions, and the towns and cities intermediate, between the mouth of the Ohio and New Orleans, nearly as much. These several demands foot up the very large amount of over thirty millions (30,000,-
